PSHE & RSE

Intent, Implementation & Impact

Intent

The intent of the PSHE curriculum at Sladewood is to create a supportive and inclusive environment where pupils develop emotionally, socially, and academically. We aim to nurture a love for learning, promote strong relationships, and instil core values such as kindness, empathy, and respect. Through both planned and spontaneous learning opportunities, we empower students to understand themselves, their relationships, and the wider world. Our goal is to equip children with the skills, knowledge, and confidence to thrive in their future, while fostering a community of acceptance and growth.

Implementation:

Sladewood will provide a comprehensive PSHE curriculum that emphasises life skills, emotional development, and real-world application, integrated into the school's ethos and culture. This approach will foster the development of the 'whole child' through inclusive opportunities, celebration of achievements, and timely interventions. The PSHE curriculum will include key strands such as PSHE, Thrive, Interception, and targeted interventions, ensuring every child progress based on individual needs and expectations. Staff will be trained in trauma-informed approaches, ACE Aware, and Restorative Practice, ensuring the curriculum supports the emotional and relational needs of all learners. Collaboration with multi-agency professionals (e.g., OT, SaLT) will ensure the PSHE curriculum is holistic and tailored to individual needs. The curriculum will respond to the specific needs of students, such as building relationships, navigating adolescence, and dealing with significant life events, ensuring learning is relevant, meaningful, and aligned with statutory Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) guidance.

Impact:

At Sladewood, each child's personal development, behaviour, and attitude are exceptional we know this through our targeted monitoring schedules (lesson observations, learning walks, book looks, progress meetings, Pupil progress maps). Monitoring evidences Teaching and learning within all aspects of the PSHE curriculum are outstanding, helping students achieve the best possible outcomes from their starting points. Assessment outcomes determine the next steps in learning and individual outcomes for our cohorts of children. The curriculum fosters the development of key skills needed to become active, responsible community members. Differentiation and targeted interventions effectively support students' progress, while assessment methods inform sequential planning, ensuring continuous, incremental progress for each child.

Relational school:

We prioritise strong, trusting relationships as the foundation for learning, wellbeing, and development. Sladewood creates a safe, inclusive, and nurturing environment where every child is valued, understood, and supported holistically. In essence, at Sladewood Academy we prioritise connection before correction, relationships before rules, and understanding before action, ensuring every pupil thrives academically, socially, and emotionally.

Thrive:

Thrive is a whole school intervention which is used to support pupils' emotional health and well-being, child development, emotional regulation, supporting self-identity/ belief and forming relationships with one another. All children will be assessed on thrive and classes build in a weekly thrive session to develop the sense of Place within their classrooms. (Play, Love, Acceptance, curiosity and Empathy). Thrive focuses on 6 core strands and within a primary school setting we will be focusing on Being, Doing, Thinking, Power and Identity as well as skills and structure. We will be providing the children with the right foundations to build interdependence within their next stage of education. For those children who need more support socially and emotionally they will be identified for individualised Action plans and interventions for thrive. Such plans will be monitored to ensure they meet/ continue to meet pupils developing needs.

Interoception:

At our Sladewood, we use Interoception to help children develop a deeper understanding of their own bodies and emotions. By teaching students to recognise and respond to internal physical signals—such as hunger, tiredness, or anxiety—we support them in identifying their feelings and needs. This practice not only enhances self-awareness but also helps children build self-regulation skills, promoting emotional well-being and independence. Through Interoception, we create a safe space for children to connect with their bodies, improving their overall ability to manage their emotions and behaviours.

Restorative Practice:

At Sladewood we use restorative Practice (RP) to focus on building, maintaining, and repairing relationships in a way that is accessible, inclusive, and responsive to the diverse needs of our children. Instead of traditional punitive approaches, we foster understanding, accountability, and social-emotional growth through RP conversations, recognizing that behaviour is a form of communication. We have designed our own adapted RP resources to support children in reflecting upon their behaviour and communication.

Pupil Voice

Sladewood Academy is committed to ensuring that all children have the right to have their voice heard, listened to and taken seriously. Children's voice is valued and nurtured to ensure all children, regardless of their age, ability and needs, have the opportunities to share their needs, wants, views and ideas, to support their wider personal development and to enable change to happen. Pupil voice is integral to all learning at Sladewood. Please also see below for information regarding our school council to enable pupil voice in all aspects of school life.

Total communication: At Sladewood, we adopt a total communication approach to ensure every pupil can express themselves and engage with their learning. This includes using a combination of verbal communication, Makaton (at least level 1), visual aids, symbols, and technology like AAC devices, tailored to individual needs. We provide consistent support, focusing on developing communication skills through various strategies, helping students access the curriculum and build meaningful interactions both in school and the wider community. Our speech and language therapist ensures a universal approach is applied consistently inline with our school ethos.

Augmentative and Alternative communication (AAC): Children are encouraged to express their likes and dislikes, make requests, make comments and share feelings. This can take the form of both low-tech and hi-tech resources matched to the pupils' individual needs. Staff are effective communication partners, allowing processing time and being an active listener in responding to a pupils' feelings and views through AAC and non-verbal cues.

Pupil Voice: Although we do not have a formal school council, we place great importance on valuing the voice of our children and actively involve them in various school projects. We ensure their views, thoughts, and opinions are taken into account in decision-making. Examples of their involvement include contributing to the planning of charity events like our bake sale, participating in playground design with our oldest class, and playing an active role in our recruitment process.

Curriculum: Our curriculum prioritises giving pupils a voice and respecting the views and opinions of others. Pupils' voices are captured through their learning experiences, reflected in their learning books, earwig assessments, and through their expressed views, choices, and ideas.

Mental health & wellbeing: To support emotional health and well-being, we ensure pupils' voices are heard through the use of AAC and communication resources, aiding in regulation and co-regulation. Restorative practice visuals and scripts are also utilized to empower children to reflect on and repair relationships, learning from their choices and actions while actively contributing their thoughts and feelings.

Questionnaires: We conduct pupil feedback surveys to ensure children can share their views on school life, well-being, and learning, allowing us to listen to their opinions and make improvements based on their input.

School Culture: Our school motto, "Together We Thrive," reflects our commitment to creating a community built on play, laughter, acceptance, curiosity, empathy, and a love for learning, where strong relationships are at the heart of everything we do. Our ethos values every individual's voice, and as a Total Communication school, we ensure that all voices are heard and respected.

Advocacy: All staff are advocates for the pupils, amplifying pupil voice and providing the necessary support to enable pupils to be heard.

Partnership working: We work closely with parents and carers to support pupils' communication and interaction, ensuring a consistent approach that allows their voices to be heard and valued.

School Council

What is the School Council?

Our school loves hearing what children think. That's why we have a School Council! The School Council is a group of children from varied classes across the school, who speak up for the rest of the school. They share ideas and suggestions with the school's leaders to help make our school the best it can be.

What Does the School Council Do?

- Helps make our school even better.
- Listens to what children in school think and feel.
- Shares ideas with teachers and school leaders.
- Helps everyone feel safe and know what to do if they feel worried.
- Thinks of ways to help others and be kind citizens.
- Plans fun events for the whole school (like charity days).
- Works with people outside of school to help our community.
- Learns new skills that help with schoolwork and life.
- Helps the Head Teacher choose special recognitions and areas to focus on.
- Makes sure everyone enjoys coming to school!

How Does the School Council Work?

- The School Council meet twice every half term.
- A teacher, a school leader, and a school governor join each meeting.
- One child will be chosen as the Chair to help lead the group.
- There is always an agenda (a list of what we'll talk about).
- Notes from the meeting (called minutes) will be shared on the school website and notice board.
- A School Council newsletter is made each term and shared with families and friends.
- Each term, the School Council will focus on one big project and tell the governors what difference it made.

What the Teacher Does to Help

- Makes sure the School Council is ready and has what it needs.
- Keeps the School Council display is up to date and easy to read.
- Prepares things for the meetings.
- Shares School Council news on the website and board.
- Works with school leaders and helpers to support School Council work.
- Helps plan fundraising events.
- Looks after the School Council budget.
- Helps find helpful resources for the School Council (like for charity days).
- Update the school staff, classes and parents on the school plans.

Reviewing the Plan

The teacher and Head Teacher will check this plan now and then. If any changes are made, they'll tell the school governors.

Stakeholder involvement & Voice

At Sladewood, we value the voices of all stakeholders in shaping our practices, decisions, and provisions. Alongside pupil voice, we actively engage with staff, parents, carers, the SAND Trust, our local community, special school networks, multi-professionals, and our School Improvement Partner. This collaborative approach enhances children's personal development and equips them with lifelong learning skills.

Examples of how we include stakeholder voice and work within our school;

Family coffee mornings: At Sladewood, we host termly coffee mornings to provide support and guidance for our families. These sessions offer opportunities for multi-professionals, such as CAMHS LD specialists and speech and language therapists, to deliver training on topics like sleep, toileting, and Makaton. They also serve as a valuable space for building relationships with families, ensuring consistent approaches to support pupils' learning and future outcomes. This also provides opportunities for parents to mix with other families to increase their support network.

Class dojo Communication: Daily updates and weekly in-depth communication with families provide a clear picture of each child's well-being at home and school, ensuring their voice is heard and valued. Through strong partnerships and consistent approaches, we offer tailored support. Class Dojo serves as an effective platform for facilitating purposeful two-way communication and information sharing.

Learning conversations & EHCPs: Our learning conversations and EHCPs are structured as two-way discussions that prioritise the child's voice. All stakeholders advocate for the child's needs, wants, and preferences, ensuring that next steps in personal development, education, and outcomes are tailored to support their independence, confidence, communication, and socialization skills.

Drop in afternoons: We hold termly family afternoons, inviting families into the classroom to engage in activities with their child. This provides insight into classroom strategies, routines, and approaches that support academic progress, personal development, communication, socialisation, independence, and emotional well-being. These sessions empower families to implement similar strategies at home, fostering consistency and further supporting their child's growth. This also provides opportunities for parents to mix with other families to increase their support network.

Multi-agency partnerships: We collaborate with a range of agencies to support both the holistic and academic development of our pupils. These include Speech and Language Therapists, Educational Psychologists, Occupational Therapists, Play Therapists, Social Care, CAMHS LD, and Advisory Teachers, ensuring a comprehensive approach to each child's needs.

SAND Trust & Schools collaboration: We actively collaborate with the trust and other special schools, both locally and beyond, to ensure our provision effectively meets the personal development needs of our students. This partnership provides both support and challenge, helping us refine our approach. Additionally, we engage with potential feeder schools to ensure our curriculum prepares pupils for their next steps in education.

School Improvement: We collaborate with school improvement partners to externally verify our pedagogical approach and curriculum, ensuring they meet the holistic needs of our pupils. This supports their next steps in education while also laying the foundations for life beyond school.

LAB: We meet termly with our Local Advisory Board, which provides constructive challenge and support to ensure the best opportunities and outcomes for our children. Board members also conduct termly link visits in key areas to quality assure and validate discussions from meetings.

Community links: We have strengthened our engagement with the local community, including the PCSO and Top of the Town Community Hub, to foster collaboration and encourage active pupil involvement. By sharing resources like our biodome and contributing food and supplies to local initiatives, we are building meaningful connections and promoting community participation. The school is actively working with the top of the town community group to see how we can act as active citizens for the local area.

Outcomes and Assessment

What does assessment look like at Sladewood?

Whilst the pupils are learning and having fun, the teachers are continuously assessing their progress within lessons, this will also be the case for their personal development and preparation for adulthood.

How this is monitored?

EHCPs: EHCPs serve as our primary assessment tool, with short-term targets set three times a year to align with long-term goals, which are reviewed annually. These targets focus on personal development, and evidence is uploaded to Earwig. Target sheets are also used to visibly track progress and demonstrate achievements to the children. The data collected is then analysed to set new outcomes and plan appropriate activities and work that will support the pupils' next steps in their development.

SALT & OT targets: All children are set termly SALT targets, which are reviewed in collaboration with the speech and language therapist, teacher, and families to ensure alignment with the children's preparation for adulthood. This approach is similarly applied to children working with other professionals, such as OT, ensuring a holistic and coordinated approach to their development.

PSHE curriculum: Our PSHE curriculum is a key part of our personal development offer, regularly assessed to ensure that we support children at the appropriate stage of their development. As a core subject, PSHE targets are set and reviewed to monitor progress and ensure right-time development.

Thrive: Thrive assessments are conducted for all children to ensure we are addressing their emotional well-being at the right time. Based on these assessments, action plans and interventions are implemented to support their progress.

Stakeholder voice: A key method for assessing our work in this area is through observation and gathering stakeholder feedback from pupils, teachers, families, and the LAB. This helps us identify our strengths and areas for development, ensuring we continuously improve our personal development and preparation for adulthood offerings, while keeping them aligned with children's interests, hobbies, and family context.

How do we use the assessment data?

The assessment data is used to plan targeted personal, social, and emotional support, ensuring children receive the right support at the right time to develop life skills and transferable skills for their future. Progress on short-term EHCP targets is reviewed each term, with adjustments made to ensure continued progress toward long-term outcomes, ultimately supporting their transition to life beyond school.

How do we monitor and maintain our assessment?

Throughout the year, we hold pupil progress meetings between teachers and senior leadership to track children's progress against their annual targets. Additionally, we conduct regular book looks, learning walks, and class visits to moderate learning in books and assess teaching and learning in classrooms. We also collaborate with our trust and external improvement partners for moderation and verification across schools, ensuring consistency and high standards.

Who do we share our students progress with?

We share the children's progress data with our parents during our learning conversations, in EHCP annual reviews and in our end of year reports. We also share progress data with wider professionals as appropriate. We share our whole school progress with our LAB, and they analyse and challenge our results.

Moreover, our data is shared within our trusts who also support and challenge the school to ensure that we are allowing our children to thrive in all areas.
